NEW THEATRE = MORE PERFORMING ARTS FOR QUEENSLANDERS

The Queensland Government's announcement it will provide $125 million towards the construction of a new theatre at the Queensland Performing Arts Centre (QPAC) is a welcome investment in Queensland's live performance industry.

LPA Chief Executive Evelyn Richardson said the funding would help QPAC attract more productions in future, including tours from interstate and overseas.

'This creates more opportunities for audiences, performing arts companies and industry workers,' Ms Richardson said.

'State of the art theatre space is a vital part of our live performance infrastructure, and this investment will only strengthen Brisbane's appeal as a destination for touring productions as well as providing even more opportunity for homegrown creative talent,' Ms Richardson said.

Ms Richardson said it was encouraging to see governments recognise the economic significance of the live performance industry to local and state economies and be prepared to make the necessary investment to support its growth.

More than 2.5 million tickets for a live performance were issued in Queensland in 2016, and the state generated 13 per cent of nationwide revenue and attendance.

'The development of new theatre infrastructure such as that planned for QPAC will help drive these numbers up in future, ensuring that live performance continues to make a significant and growing contribution to the Queensland economy,' Ms Richardson said.

FRESH AIR FOR QUEENSLAND UNIS

Marking World No Tobacco Day Griffith University will joined a growing list of Queensland higher education and training providers who have transitioned to 'smoke-free' campuses.

The move will protect the health of more than 400,000 students and staff members from harmful second-hand smoke across Griffiths' Gold Coast, Logan, Mount Gravatt, Nathan and South Bank campuses.

Queensland Health is working with all tertiary education providers to reduce the use of tobacco on campuses and support students and staff to quit smoking which includes providing free resources and signage, and tailored counselling services from Quitline.

University of Southern Queensland also went smoke free on the day, while Central Queensland University, University of Sunshine Coast and Southern Cross University became smoke-free at the start of 2018. They join QUT and Australian Catholic University, who implemented smoke-free policies prior to the initiative commencing, while UQ, James Cook University and TAFE QLD are set to go smoke-free from 1 July 2018.

NL/D'BAY WORKERS TO SPEAK OUT IN THE WAGE THEFT INQUIRY

Been ripped off? Member for Bancroft Chris Whiting MP has called on locals living North Lakes and Deception Bay to tell their story of their wages "rip off".

Queensland Parliament recently voted to hold a Parliamentary Inquiry into unpaid wages that will hear testimony from Queensland workers who have experienced wage theft.

"If it is local workers' money that is being withheld, I want our local voices to be heard," said Chris Whiting.

"That could be underpayment, unpaid super, unpaid penalty rates, unauthorised deductions from pay, unpaid work trials, the misuse of ABNs and sham contracting to deny workers their proper entitlements."

For more information on how to make a submission to the enquiry contact Chris Whiting on 34482100 or bancroft@parliament.qld.gov.au

NATIONAL AWARD WAGE INCREASE

Australian award workers will receive a pay rise of $24.30 a week beginning in July but not everyone is happy

Last Friday (June 1, 2018) the Fair Work Commission announced a lift to the national minimum wage and award rates of pay by 3.5 per cent. This increase applies to all employees whose employers get their pay rates from the national minimum wage or any modern award wage and all employees who aren't covered by an award or agreement.

On behalf of Queensland workers Industrial Relations Minister Grace Grace welcomed the news.

"This will provide a much-needed real wage increase for almost half a million low-paid private sector workers in Queensland," she said.

"These are workers who do not enjoy the benefits of bargaining and they rely on this decision for an annual pay increase to help make ends meet."

The unions had argued for a higher increase but acknowledged the 3.5% increase, which equates to $24.32 per week, was a step in the right direction but will still leave some full-time workers struggling.

The Australian Council of Trade Unions (ACTU) is campaigning for the restoration of a living wage, stating that the minimum wage should not leave people in poverty, that it should provide a comfortable life for low-paid workers and underpin our labour market.

"This increase is a step in the right direction, and takes us closer to our goal of 60% of the median wage," said ACTU Secretary Sally McManus.

"The minimum wage should be pegged at 60% of the median wage. This is the level set by the OECD - that is what's required to ensure that every full-time worker in Australia can survive on their wage."

"All Australian workers need a pay rise, but none more so than the 2.3 million people who are now award reliant. This 3.5% increase that equates to $26.71 per week for a hospitality worker or $24.33 for a horticulture worker will be a welcome reprieve for them but we will continue to fight for the restoration of a living wage that underpins a much fairer collective bargaining system."

"We have to change the rules on the minimum wage. People who have been forced into poverty by the inadequacy of this wage should not have to wait every year to see if they will be saved by the Fair Work Commission. The minimum wage should be set to keep pace with wages."

"It is time to... restore a minimum wage that is 'fair and reasonable' and sufficient to provide a standard of living that is suitable for a contemporary human being living in a civilized community" McManus Said.

Not everyone is happy about the news, with the The Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry citing the increase as putting jobs in small business at risk.

The Australian Chamber said that this is the ninth year in a row in which minimum wages have risen more than inflation and that small business risks being pushed further out of the economy by the Fair Work Commission's decision.

Australia's National Minimum Wage is now close to, if not, the highest in the world they said in a statement.

"This minimum wage increase will intensify pressure on people running small businesses, many of whom are already struggling," Australian Chamber CEO, James Pearson said.

"Businesses which can't pass on such significant risers to customers will have to cut hours, cut jobs or both."

"Small business accounts for the lion's share of award wage employment in Australia, including jobs for our young people, first time job seekers and the lower skilled."

"These are the people whose jobs and jobs prospects are most at risk from wage increases in excess of inflation and well beyond what is affordable for small businesses."

"More than half of small business owners earn less than $50,000 per year, and there will be a point at which they will wonder why they bother if wages are raised by more than prices, and business overheads are too high."

"But it doesn't end there. Today's decision is bad news for Australia's 700,000 unemployed and 1.1 million underemployed." Mr Pearson says.

"The simple reality is that the more expensive it is to employ, the less viable a business becomes. The less viable a business becomes, the less likely they are to employ."

But, significantly, the Fair Work Commission noted that no party was able to identify any economic indicator which demonstrated any discernible detriment arising from last year's decision, which awarded an increase of 3.3 per cent.

The new national minimum wage will be $719.20 per week or $18.93 per hour. The increase applies from the first full pay period starting on or after 1 July 2018.

If you're not sure which award applies to you or your employee you can use Fairwork's Find My Award online at www.fairwork.gov.au/awards-and-agreements/awards/find-my-award/

BOOST YOUR NUTRITION TO WARD OFF WINTER COLD AND FLUS

The cold and flu season has begun and the importance of good nutrition when it comes to your immune system can't be underestimated

No one food will magically fend off the flu, but certain nutrients take the lead in helping protect your body from billions of bacteria, viruses, and other germs.

Living with cancer increases your risk for complications from influenza, so people currently going through treatment, or who have a personal history of cancer, and people who live with or care for cancer patients and survivors, should focus on having a healthy balanced diet now more than ever.

Research suggests that eating a healthy well-balanced diet benefit people during and after cancer treatment, as well as improving your body's immune system and ability to fight infection.

Generally, fresh salads and cooked veggies should make up the biggest proportion of your plate – aim for five serves of vegetables and two serves of fruit every day.

Going for a variety of fruits and vegetables is key, as they provide us with different nutrients and antioxidants, so aim to eat many different coloured fruits and vegetables at mealtimes.

Foods rich in vitamin C are important for wound repair and immune function and some of the best sources are citrus fruits – mandarins and oranges are in-season - as well as capsicums and broccoli.

While carrots, sweet potato and spinach, which are delicious in winter soups and casseroles, have the benefit of vitamin A, a natural antioxidant.

Try to fill about a quarter of your plate with complex carbohydrates like wholegrain bread, sweet potato or quinoa, and the final quarter of your plate should be a source of protein.

The antibodies that help fight disease are made of protein and many foods high in protein also contain other immune-boosting nutrients – lean cuts of beef, beans and seafood contain zinc, while nuts are a good source of magnesium.

Try adding in herbs and spices to your cooking in lieu of added salt and sugar for both taste and health benefits. For centuries, people have used garlic as a traditional remedy – why not add freshly crushed cloves to your stir-fry or wholemeal pasta dishes? Or add in a touch of cayenne, mustard powder, ginger or nutmeg to enhance meals and reap the sinus-clearing benefits that come with them.

Also, dehydration is the most common reason bugs tend to stick around. If you are suffering from cold-like symptoms, increase your intake of water and hot tea, while avoiding sugary drinks and alcohol. A large amount of research suggests that drinking alcohol suppresses immune function.

TRY TO FILL ABOUT A QUARTER OF YOUR PLATE WITH COMPLEX CARBOHYDRATES LIKE WHOLEGRAIN BREAD, SWEET POTATO OR QUINOA,

Having a healthy well-balanced diet is vital for your overall health and will help reduce your risk of preventable chronic disease, including some cancers, in the long-term.

NO SECURITY IN MARRIAGE

Hello Miss Schilling,

I am a sixteen year old girl and I am going to a private school. My parents are separated and I live with my father. I want to go to uni and be a physiotherapist but my father thinks that this is a waste of time because I will just marry, have kids and get my security from my future husband.

He sees it as a total waste of money. Dad says that he is counting down the days until he can stop paying school fees and I can get a job.

My mother lives in NSW and has said I can go there if I can't find a job straight away or if I want to go to uni and work part time. Mum and Dad don't get on and I feel that my Dad will hate me if I go to live with Mum.

Mum says that there is no security in marriage because dad had affairs and left her with nothing but debt. I don't want to do uni at night and work all day because I reckon that it will really reduce my chances of passing. What would you tell your kids?

Annie/Margate

Hello Annie,

I would say that in order for you to have future happiness, security and choices in life that you really need to look for security within yourself. If you choose to marry one day, you will have a better chance of being happy and fulfilled if you have your own identity, money and resources. Your parent's marriage was a casualty of infidelity and this is very common in today's society.

However, having your own career, money and means to care for yourself also gives you more options should there be a breakdown in your marriage. By this I mean the freedom to stay and work through the problems and the freedom to go. If a person stays to work on a marriage after a breakdown it stands a much better chance of repair if they don't just stay because there is no option to go.

Often, especially in prior generations, when a girl chooses to marry she will be looking for security, social status and the right environment to bring children into the world. Even professional women tend to make their marriage a priority. Some men expect women to do all the sacrificing so that he can be free to climb to the top of his profession and have a lifestyle to which he feels he is entitled. I say some men because (and lucky for you Annie) although there have always been good faithful men, men today seem to be more domestically focussed. Women and men should ask themselves, "Do I want to be totally dependent on my partner, or do I want to be self sufficient?"

Having your own career and interests is more emotionally satisfying and will help you grow in many ways. So what are your choices if you choose to build the future that you want? If your mother has offered to support you while you study you could live with her and get a HECS loan to cover your tuition. If you are too afraid of alienating your dad to do this, you could ask yourself some hard questions;

"Am I more afraid of being stuck in a dead end job and relying on others for security, or am I more afraid of upsetting my Dad?"

You could also weigh up the consequences of each decision in all ways. Some examples might be; what would it be like to live with your mother after all this time? What would be her expectations of you living with her? What would be some good ground rules to put in place such as not bagging your Dad to you? I think that some good long and honest talks with both parents would give you some answers and even if your parents don't want to talk about your future, you will have explored all your options with them. Sometimes when people won't give you answers, they are actually telling you all you need to know about their commitment to you.

So, what would I tell me kids? I would tell them to go and build the best future that they can and if someone comes along and wants to take some of the load off, it's a bonus. Here's a quote that I like

"Being alone and liking it is, for a woman, an act of treachery, an infidelity far more threatening than adultery" (M Haskell)

YOUR STARS

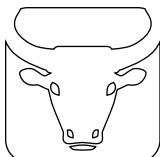

Aquarius Jan 21-Feb 19: The reason no one's saying yes is because your heart isn't in it. The problem isn't your enthusiasm. It's with what you're selling.

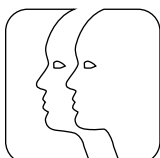

Pisces Feb 20-March 20: Consider all offers – including that farfetched one from out of left field. It could be the answer to your prayers.

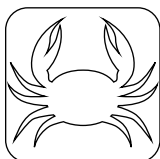

Aries March 21-April 20: You've been restless for months with no idea of what's going on. You'll soon find out the why and what to do about it.

Taurus April 21- May 21: You do better with the striving than the arriving. Success has its own challenges which is something you get to contemplate today. It's a good problem to have.

Gemini May 22-June 21: You can sense that there's been a fundamental shift in your life. Unfortunately, you're not clear about what that means. Cool the engines because there's plenty of time to find out.

Cancer June 22-July 23: Mars in a hidden part of your chart could cause trouble if you continue to wave away problems. Thankfully Mars is here to raise consciousness; not a ruckus.

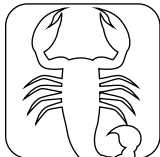

Leo July 24-Aug 23: If the terms aren't right then don't accept them. You may have to leave that offer on the table. It's better than agreeing to something that isn't right.

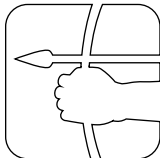

Virgo Aug 24-Sept 23: You've been so focused on yourself that you haven't paid attention to developments in your partner's life. These may wind up taking precedence.

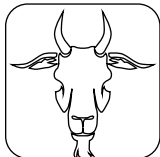

Libra Sept 24-Oct 23: Are you being forced out of your job? Best defend your turf before somebody else horns in on it.

Scorpio Oct 24-Nov 22: Marching to a different drummer was fine when you were going somewhere. Now you look lost. Find your way back to the rest of the band.

Sagittarius Nov 23-Dec 21: Changes in your career could mean time apart because of professional demands. Anything's manageable as long as you and your partner work together.

Capricorn Dec 22-Jan 20: A to-do list isn't the same as a life purpose. Be more mindful of your time and how you spend it.

It's regarded as arguably the greatest Grand Final ever played and one that proved rugby league is much more than just a game. The match was perfect theatre. It couldn't have been scripted better... until indigenous playwright Nadine McDonald-Dowd and Robert Kronk thought it could be. And they succeed in The Longest Minute.

Brought to us by Queensland Theatre, The Longest Minute, Directed by Bridget Boyle is a co-production of JUTE Theatre Company and Debase Productions opened last week at QPAC's Cremorne Theatre to a full house and left punters standing and awestruck - exhilarated by euphoric highs and tragic lows - much like the match it's based on.

The Longest Minute is the story of footy-mad female Jess Wright (the brilliant Chenoa Deemal). All Jess wants to do is play and perhaps make her footy legend dad Frank "Black Flash" Wright (Mark Sheppard) proud in the process. Set in Townsville, the play takes us from a pre-Cowboys era through to their historic premiership victory in 2015 and how that affects the lives of the Wright family.

Destined to be a star, Chenoa Deemal shines as both lead and narrator. Although Chenoa's performance is worth the ticket price alone, her role is supported by the vigorous Mark Sheppard as dad Frank Wright, perfectly cast Louise Brehmer as Jess's Mum and a stoic Lafe Charlton with precision punchlines as Uncle Gordon. You'll leave the theatre with a lot of respect for Uncle Gordy. But it's Jess's bother Laurie (Jeremy Ambrum) who seems under-exercised... until the hammer comes down HARD in a scene that is the most heart-rending I've ever seen in live theatre. We're talking real audience tears. This is Chenoa's show, but you should see it for that scene. Together with indispensable David Terry this ensemble brings the Wright family, and the era, into full view of the audience. The dynamic between them on stage is impeccable.

If you're not at all intrigued by the footy flavoured tagline of the Longest Minute, don't be put off. While framed by the Cowboys struggle to the premiership, it's actually an introspective tale of aspiration, belonging, loss and self awareness punctuated with a scene of such incredible emotion that the theatre full of laughter and cheer a moment ago is reduced to complete silence. It's a stunning moment. It's light, it's dark, it's real.

So, no. You don't have to like footy to enjoy this. It's premium modern Aussie theatre in every way. Having said that, it may give footy avoiders something to chat about when the crew starts talking NRL at the next barbecue. There are many things worth seeing this show for, but above all it's Chenoa's Jess and 'that scene'.

The Longest Minute runs nightly with some matinees until June 23 2018 at QPAC's Cremorne Theatre. Tickets cost just $49 - $69 with concessions available. Details and tickets via www.queenslandtheatre.com.au

THE LONGEST MINUTE

Date: 26 May - 23 June 2018

Location: Cremorne Theatre, QPAC

Where were you the night of the 2015 NRL Grand Final? The night when long-time underdogs the North Queensland Cowboys won in an all-QLD nail-biter that changed the game, and the state, forever. For one family of Cowboys diehards, their whole lives have led up to this moment.

Jess was born on the night of the North Queensland Cowboys' first game in Townsville. Daughter of Foley Shield legend Frank 'Black Flash' Wright, she grew up as a footy fanatic with big dreams, silky skills and boundless ambition to play. But as a girl in a male-dominated sport, she faces more than her fair share of knockbacks, just like the luckless Cowboys. Despite their relentless string of losses, Jess still dares to believe in her team, and herself.

RODENT PROBLEM?

A scratching in your ceiling or walls is often indicative that you have some unwelcome guests living in your home. Rodents become more of a problem during the colder winter months as they move inside seeking warmth and shelter. They are carriers of germs and disease, and ridding them from your home should be a top priority.

A professional pest technician from Sandgate Pest Control can visit your home, identify the entry points and nesting areas and then apply the treatment to ensure that the entire population is removed. As a part of this treatment a free service period will be provided, along with advice on how you can rodent proof your home.

Rodent proofing doesn't have to be difficult, and the advice given by Sandgate Pest Control technicians can be easily completed by homeowners after the treatment. Once implemented, rodent proofing reduces the risk of future infestations. But what must be remembered is that rodent proofing won't remove rodents currently living in your home; it will only help prevent them from returning in future.

So if you are hearing a scratching in your walls or ceilings, or seeing the little droppings they leave behind, the best course of action is to have a treatment completed by Sandgate Pest Control and then follow the advice given by the qualified technician to rodent proof your home.

For more information about rodents or the services Sandgate Pest Control provide, please visit their website www.sandgatepest.com.au or contact their friendly office staff on 3269 6198.

LOCAL BUILDER RECEIVES TOP HONOUR

North Lakes' Bold Living recognised on international stage with Housing Industry Australia award

Bold Living's Brett Boulton
- doing things differently

Bold Living has cemented its position as a national building industry leader, with the company announced as a winner at the recent 2018 Housing Industry Association (HIA) Australian Housing Awards, held in Singapore.

With its HQ on Flinders Parade, the company was awarded the HIA Australian Professional Medium Builder Award, knocking out six other residential builders from around the country for the win.

Bold Living owner and director, Brett Boulton, said while the company had been recognised as the top Queensland Professional Medium builder three years running, this award was a significant milestone for the company.

"We are so unbelievably thrilled to be acknowledged and recognised on a national stage for the work we do here in Queensland," he said.

"At Bold Living, we have always prided ourselves on doing things differently and this is clearly resonating with homebuyers.

"We are passionate about continuing to offer innovative designs, quality construction and the flexibility to work with our clients to deliver their dream home."

The national award follows a stellar 2017 and an even better 2018 for Bold Living, with the company on track to complete over $65 million worth of new homes – equating to over 300 homes this financial year, a 30 per cent increase on last year.

Mr Boulton said Bold Living was continuing to expand its presence across South-East Queensland and had set its sights on the growing Lockyer Valley and Gold Coast markets in particular.

"We are also about to launch new display homes at Upper Coomera, which will help to drive our expansion into the Gold Coast market, and in particular its rapidly growing northern corridor."

Complementing its established successful design ranges, Mr Boulton said Bold's recently released Saba Living collection had proven extremely popular with homebuyers looking for a touch of luxury.

"This collection is suited to those wanting a premium design and inclusions, and is already striking a chord with those undertaking rebuilds in inner city areas and building canal fronting homes. We have a brand new Saba Living display home under construction and due to open late this year at Newport on the canal that will really showcase how these designs capture that waterfront lifestyle," he said.

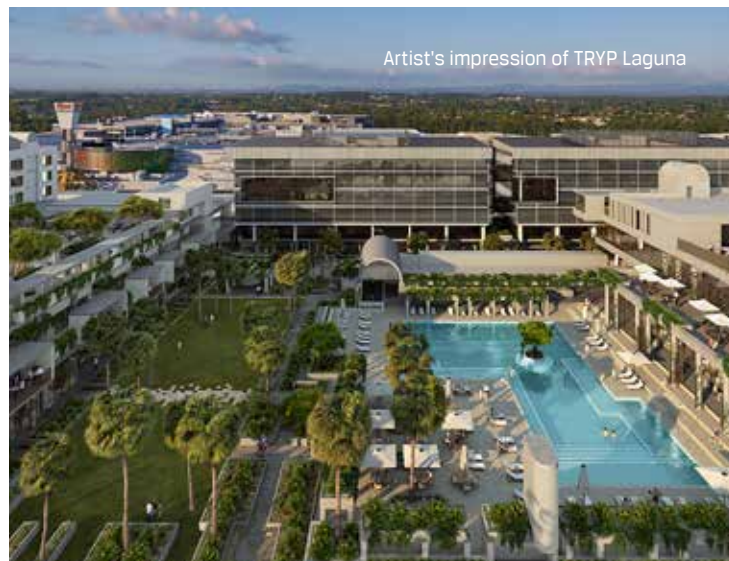

Bold Living has also launched a Smart Living range, which is designed for first homebuyers and offers an affordable range of designs and inclusions.

Over the coming months, Bold will continue to expand its footprint across South-East Queensland, with new display homes including two at Stockland North Lakes Estate, two at North Harbour Estate in Burpengary East, and more further afield, for a total of 12 display homes across the South-East.

TRYP HOTEL NORTH LAKES ANNOUNCED

The funky property set to join the area as part of the Laguna North Lakes development

Artist's impression of TRYP Laguna

If you've ever had a staycation at TRYP's Fortitude Valley Hotel in Brisbane, you'll know the brand is no ordinary experience and now there's one coming to North Lakes.

The 138-room TRYP North Lakes will be part of the AU$250 million, 1.7 hectare Laguna North Lakes development. Laguna North Lakes is set to become an iconic destination thanks to the combined expertise of The George Group, the team behind the highly successful James Street lifestyle precinct in Fortitude Valley, and local company Pointcorp, developers of a series of visionary premium apartment projects in inner-city Brisbane.

Matt Taplin, Senior Vice President Hotel and Resort Operations & Property Development, Wyndham Hotel Group South East Asia and Pacific Rim said North Lakes was an ideal new location for TRYP to expand into destinations travellers want to discover.

"TRYP Fortitude Valley, with its iconic street art murals and unique personality, has quickly become one of the most iconic places to stay in Brisbane. Likewise, TRYP North Lakes will have its own distinctive character and a vibrant, stylish allure that will attract guests from near and far to experience its contemporary take on hospitality," he added, "Mr Taplin said.

Hotel guests will be able to utilise the unique amenities the Laguna development will offer, including a huge resort-style swimming pool, bar, restaurant, gym and health facility, and 5,000 square metres of curated fashion and retail stores and eateries. The hotel will also cater to business travellers using the largest function and events centre in northern Brisbane or working within the 10,500 square metres of commercial office space within Laguna North Lakes.

Site works on the hotel are expected to begin in the fourth quarter of this year and it is slated to open by mid to late 2021. It will be managed by Resort Management by Wyndham, which currently operates multiple properties in Australia, including TRYP Fortitude Valley Hotel, Brisbane.

"Our vision is for Laguna to be a must-visit destination for conferencing, events and leisure, which makes the TRYP by Wyndham brand a perfect fit," said Patrick George, Director of The George Group.

"We are determined to activate the best facilities, opportunities and operators in the community through this development and it is a privilege to partner with Wyndham Hotel Group on TRYP North Lakes, which will be one of the most important aspects of Laguna," he added.

"Our extensive experience delivering quality residential projects around South East Queensland has put us in excellent stead to create a unique and iconic vision for Australia's second TRYP hotel," said Chris Vitale, Director of Pointcorp.

The new hotel will be the fourth property under the TRYP by Wyndham brand in the South East Asia and South Pacific region, joining TRYP Fortitude Valley, TRYP Yangon Hotel in Myanmar and TRYP by Wyndham Mall of Asia – Manila in the Philippines.
